"Federal Hill" is situated only a mile east of Bardstown, Ky. It was E. B. Ray purchased of Reather Ray here that one of the most touching and famous songs of the century was hogs at 51c to be delivered the first of composed and sung. This Old Kentucky Home has been in possession of the Rowan family for nearly a century. Judge John Rowan, once a United States Senator from Kentucky, and during his day one of the most famous jurist of the West, resided here for years. His son, the Hon. John Rowan, Jr., who was a man of splendid intellect and who held high official position during his lifetime, lived here until his death. Since then his widow, once a lady of great beauty tremely fine peaches at the low price and renowned popularity, and who even in her old age retains much of these gifts, has resided.

It was here that "My Old Kentucky Home" was composed and sung. One beautiful morning while the darkies were at work in the corn fields, and the sun shone with mighty splendor upon the waving grain-first giving it a color of light red, then changing it to a golden hue—there was seated upon an old bench in front of this historic mansion two young peoplebrother and sister. High up in a tree top a mocking bird warbled its sweet notes. Over in the hidden recesses of a small bush the thrush's mellow song could be heard. HOW TO LAY TILE.

New York Farmer Explains How to Drain a Wet Strip from Two to Four Rods Wide,

First, see that you have a good outlet for the water; second, dig a narrow ditch along the center of the wet strip deep enough to drain the land, say three to four feet, according to the nature of the soil. If it is liable to settle down much after the water is drawn off, it should be deeper than it would otherwise. Trim the bottom of the ditch carefully to a true grade. A string stretched over the center of the ditch is a very efficient help in getting both line and grade.

The line of the tile should be as straight as the circumstances will permit and the tile laid to a true grade, which may be ascertained by measuring down from the string. A sag in the tile is sure to be filled with silt sooner or later, destroying its usefulness.

I would not use smaller than fourinch tile. If there are springs, they must be provided for. When the bottom of the ditch is very truly and carefully brought to grade, the tile may be laid end to end along the bottom, the joints covered with an inverted sod to keep loose dirt out and the ditch filled up.-Rural New Yorker.

DESTROYING CLODS.

It is a Hard Job. But Perseverane and Good Common Sense Accomplish Wonders.

If you have a piece of hard land to break, which is so baked as to come up in clods, we would suggest that you run over it with a disk or cutaway harrow ahead of plows, and break with very small scooters, says a southern farmer. Do not try to turn such land. If you still have clods do not wait for them to harden, but run a heavy roller or drag over and follow with some pulverizing harrow the same day An hour or so will do this for each day's plowing. Thus you will pulverize most of them quite easily. Run roller ahead of harrow so as to crush as many as possible, and fasten the others so that they cannot dodge the harrows. It will pay to take time to do this, your crop can be cultivated so much cheaper afterwards; and the yield will be so much greater. Every time you go over with harrow and crushers you will increase the yield of the crop.

We once selected one acre in a 20-acre field, average spot, and plowed and harrowed this acre 14 times right along before we quit. We then planted and cultivated this acre just as we did the rest of the field, running the rows right along through it. The yield was much more than double any other acre. This has continued to be true for five years, in all kinds of crops. All through the grow ing season this acre can be distin guished as far as you can see the field. All crops grow off quicker and yield ts Advantages, Moral and Pecuniary, Are Not Appreciated by Unskilled City Laborers.

LIFE IN THE COUNTRY.

The Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette omments with rare good sense upon this subject. After calling attention to the searcity of farm laborers it says: "It is a subject for regret, not only upon the ground that agricultural interests are hurt, but it is distinctly unfortunate for a large class of skilled workmen in the various cities that the advantages and opportunities of farm work are not more generally sought. Work of all classes in the cities is performed in the main by specialists. This is growing to be the case more and more each year in every department of professional, commercial and mechanical labor. In the cities only the people with a well-acquired trade or profession stand a chance in the competitions of life. Yet there is in every city a vast number of men who are earning a precarious living by doing the hardest sort of menial labor. Their families are compelled to live in narrow, squalid streets, and their children are being reared in an atmosphere that tends to produce moral depravity. In the agricultural dis-tricts there are places for these people which, compared with their present conditions, are positive Edens. They would have to toil, but it is toil under conditions of health and moral cleanliness that compensate a thousand times over for the exertion." The next question naturally is, why do these laborers not make a change that would be so beneficial to them and their families? There are several reasons. First, they do not 'realize these advantages. The country wages look low to them. The city papers do not educate them as to the real advantages of country life; on the contrary, they are apt to poke fun at everything from the country and to magnify the city's advantages. Then, city laborers are like all other classes of people, they prefer to drift along rather than change, always hoping for something to turn up that will land them a 'steady job" at good wages. But probably the greatest hindrance of all is the gregarious tendency of humanity. They prefer the city, where society of some kind is always to be found, to the isolation of the farm. There seems to be no cure for this. While a good many city people have turned to the country of late years, the laborers have not formed a large proportion of them - National Stockman

NEWSPAPER MAN'S MISTAKE. He Sent Vice President Hobart's Card

·to a Senator Instead of

A Baltimore newspaper man once came over to Washington to do some interviewing of public men, says a Washington correspondent of Philadelphia North American. It was when Garret A. Hobart was vice president, and he called upon that distinguished New Jerseyan first. Then, with fear and trembling, he went to the residence of a senator who was noted for frigidity toward representatives of the press. He sent up his card and expected to be sent a curt refusal to be seen. What was his astonishment when the lackey came downstairs, bowed profoundly and said that Senator So-and-So would be down in just a minute, and would he be so good as to make himself at home meanwhile. In less than that time the statesman came down the staircase it a pace that made the reporter fear for the safety of his limbs.

"Ah! Mr. Hobart, delighted to see you," he said, as he entered, with his hand outstretched, and before his eves had become accustomed to the darkened parlor. Then, of a sudden, he drew himself up stiffly, fumbled in his waistcoat, pulled out the card that permitted to go on down, so as not had been sent to him, and demanded: "What do you mean by this imposition, sir?" Like lightning it flashed baking or running together is on the newspaper man what had happrevented the clods will not form. This pened. How to Shoot a Horse or Dog and Dispose of a Cat in the Least Painful Way.

The Illinois Humane society is dis tributing circulars containing instructions for the quickest and least painful method in killing animals.

The instructions state that for shooting a horse the revolver should be held within a few inches of the head, the aim being toward the center of the head midway between the eyes the middle of the forehead.

When a hammer or ax is employed the horse should be blindfolded. Two vigorous, well-directed blows just below the foretop will make death cerfired downward, so that the bullet shall go through the brain into or toward the neck.

After much consultation with veterinary surgeons and experts, the society decides that there is no more merciful way of killing cats than to out, with a long-handled spoon, about half a teaspoonful of pure cyanide of potassium on the cat's tongue.

MUST CARE FOR THEIR OWN.

Parents in the State of Ohio Are Held Responsible for Their Children's Support.

The Ohio legislature at its last session passed a law attaching a penalty of a term in the penitentiary for parents who refuse to support their offspring. The first conviction under his law is reported from Columbus. It appears that a miner named Raby was making good wages, but he could not be induced by the authorities to support his only child. Some months ago he separated from his wife, and he made a fight for the possession of the child and was successful. As he was not prepared to properly provide or the child, it was taken to the children's home to be cared for. When the child was left there it was the distinct understanding that he was to pay certain stipend for the services. He failed to comply with his contract, and all the urging of the county officers had no effect in inducing him to let oose of his purse strings to pay for the necessaries of life for his child. After a large number of admonitions he was arrested and the court sentenced him to serve one year. In April, 890, the general assembly passed a law attaching a workhouse sentence for cases of that kind, but the law was amended by the last legislature, and the penitentiary was substituted for the workhouse.

PRETTY MARRIAGE CUSTOM. It Was Inaugurated by Queen Victoria and Has Been Copied by All Her Children,

A pretty custom dating from the wedding of the late Queen Victoria, is that a sprig of myrtle which formed part of the bride's wreath was carefully cultured, and in due time planted out. When the princess royal was married sprigs were cut for her bridal wreath rom this myrtle tree. The princess, following her mother's example, had one of the sprigs cared for till it befor her daughter-in-law's wreath at the wedding of the present emperor of Germany.

The custom was observed in the marriage of the prince of Wales and all other of Queen Victoria's children and grandchildren. There is already, as the result of his charming custom, he making of a grove of myrtle trees. Other customs attached to the mar-riages of the royal family relate to the bouquet and the wedding cake. Ever since the marriage of Queen Victoria a firm of Windsor florists have had the honor of presenting the one, a Chester confectioner finding the other, neither accepting navment.

Sandow, the strong man, has seldom had occasion to display his muscularity-except to gratify his audiences, but once it stood him in good stead among the bullies who have at times sought to run things to suit themselves on the Bois de Boulogne in Paris. Their mode of action is to have one of the gang follow the proposed victim. At a given signal several others approach, close in on him, rob him, sometimes seriously injuring him. > The government of Nicaragua has recently put in a claim to sovereignty over several groups of small islands, including the Mangle islands, lying off the Atlantic coast of the Isthmus of Panama, says the Washington Star. The question arose when President Loubet of France recently gave his decision as to the boundary between Costa Rica and Colombia. The decision awarded to Colombia a considerable part of the territory in dispute, including the valuable bay of Chiriqui, on the Atlantic side, and also several groups of outlying islands which were in dispute between the two governments. When the award was made known Nicaragua came forward with a claim of ownership over the smal group of islands. It was answered in behalf of Colombia that President Loubet had carefully gone over the records establishing ownership, and that these had failed to disclose any authority on the part of Nicaragua to claim them. The negotiations have not proceeded beyond this point. The islands are rather unimportant except for their strategic location off the easterly entrance to any canal route which may be chosen. For this reason the controversy has received the attention of the isthmian canal commission, which has not, however, had occasion to take definite action on the subject.

The House of Echoes Many valleys, described in guide books as "whispering valleys," are favorite resorts for tourists in all parts of the world. Few, however, exceed in wonder a valley at Stansfield, in Es sex. England. The rector of this parish, in giving a careful account of his own experiences, states that his house stands on a hill 288 feet above sea level, rising in the rear to 300 feet, while in front the ground slopes away to a stream 100 feet below, and again rises 180 feet on the opposite side. From the rectory the bells of 14 or 15 villages may be distinguished, while across the valley footsteps and voices in conversational tone may be heard at half a

ITCH IS TORTURE.

Everyone knows that the imagination has a great effect upon the body and at times some ludicrous experiences are met with. During the prevailing torrid spell a man and his wife sat together on a shady veranda reading. The man read an African story which dwelt upon the suffering entailed upon the inhabitants of this land by the heat. Hot sands and the blazing sun were often mentioned and the scant costume of the natives was given due mention.

Eczema is caused by an acid humor in the blood coming in contact with the skin and producing great redness and inflammation; little pustular eruptions form and discharge a thin, sticky fluid, which dries and scales off; sometimes the skin is hard, dry and fissured. Eczema in any form is a tormenting, stubborn disease, and the itching and burning at times are almost unbearable; the acid burning humor seems to ooze out and set the skin on fire. Salves, washes nor other external applications do any real good, for as long as the poison remains in the blood it will keep the skin irritated.

Grading and Packing Honey. Every beekeeper should strive to make a reputation as an honorable shipper, and after it has once beer made he will not have much trouble in finding a market for his honey. It may be needless to say that this will require eternal vigilance in grading and packing. Dark honey must not be packed with light, and partly filled sections must not find their way into the middle of a case, but these should be set aside and the honey extracted from them. Grade your honey uniformly and try to have the middle of the case as good as the facing. Then provide yourself with a rubber stamp with your name and address upon it, and stamp all your goods. This will advertise your business, and buyers will gain confidence in you and will deal with you in preference to some one else who does not stand behind his goods; for, if you really have a good article, consumers will continue to ask for your honey.-Farm Journal.
